

CODE OF BUSINESS CONDUCT

Equiterra Capital LLC

Document ref: EQ-COMP-001 Version: 1.0 Effective date: 1 March 2026 Approved by: Board of Managers

1. Purpose and Scope

This Code of Business Conduct (the “Code”) sets out the standards of ethical and lawful conduct that govern Equiterra Capital LLC and its subsidiaries and affiliates (together, “Equiterra” or the “Company”). The Code applies to all directors, managers, officers, employees, consultants, agents and contractors acting on the Company’s behalf (collectively, “Personnel”).

Equiterra originates, develops and transacts carbon credits and related environmental products across compliance markets, the voluntary market and Article 6 cooperative approaches under the Paris Agreement. The Company operates across multiple jurisdictions, including markets assessed as higher risk for corruption and sanctions exposure. This Code provides the framework of policies, guidance, monitoring and controls through which the Company manages those risks and conducts business with integrity.

Compliance with law. Personnel must comply with all applicable laws and regulations in every jurisdiction in which the Company operates. Where this Code sets a higher standard than local law, this Code applies. Where local law sets a higher standard, local law applies.

No retaliation; consequences. The Company prohibits retaliation against any person who raises a concern in good faith. Breach of this Code may result in disciplinary action up to and including termination, and in referral to competent authorities where conduct may be unlawful.

2. Governance and Responsibility

The Board of Managers owns this Code and reviews it at least annually. Day-to-day responsibility for the compliance program rests with the designated Compliance Officer, who maintains the Company’s policies, oversees risk-based due diligence, delivers training and reports compliance matters to the Board.

- Personnel are responsible for understanding and applying the Code to their work and for raising concerns promptly.
- Managers are additionally responsible for promoting a culture of compliance and for ensuring that those they supervise understand the Code.
- The Compliance Officer maintains records sufficient to evidence the operation of each control to counterparties, auditors and regulators on request.

3. Anti-Bribery and Anti-Corruption

Equiterra maintains a zero-tolerance position on bribery and corruption. The Company’s anti-corruption standards are aligned with the principles of the U.S. Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (FCPA) and the U.K. Bribery Act 2010, and apply to dealings with both public officials and private parties.

- Personnel must not offer, promise, give, request or accept any bribe, kickback or other improper advantage, directly or through a third party, to obtain or retain business or any improper benefit.

- Facilitation payments are prohibited.
- Gifts and hospitality must be modest, transparent, infrequent, and never given or received to improperly influence a decision. Anything beyond nominal value requires prior approval from the Compliance Officer.
- Particular care applies to interactions with government officials, state-owned entities, and designated national authorities in the carbon and energy sectors, including in connection with project authorization, eligibility letters, and Article 6 corresponding adjustments.
- Political contributions on behalf of the Company are prohibited unless approved in advance by the Board.
- Books and records must accurately reflect all transactions; no undisclosed or off-book funds or accounts are permitted.

4. Sanctions and Trade Controls

The Company is committed to complying with all applicable trade and economic sanctions and export-control regimes, including those administered by the United Nations, the United States (OFAC), the European Union and the United Kingdom.

- Personnel must not transact, directly or indirectly, with sanctioned persons, entities or territories, or in a manner that would breach applicable sanctions.
- All counterparties are screened against applicable sanctions and watch lists at onboarding and on an ongoing basis, with screening repeated where ownership or control changes.
- Transactions presenting potential sanctions exposure are escalated to the Compliance Officer and may not proceed without clearance.

5. Anti-Money Laundering and Counterparty Due Diligence

Equiterra operates a risk-based anti-money laundering and counterparty due diligence framework. The Company will not knowingly facilitate money laundering, terrorist financing or the proceeds of crime, and applies enhanced scrutiny to the integrity and provenance of carbon assets.

- Onboarding of any new counterparty requires Know-Your-Counterparty (KYC) due diligence, including verification of legal identity, beneficial ownership, and the source of funds where risk indicators are present.
- Each counterparty is screened for money-laundering, corruption and sanctions risk, with the depth of diligence scaled to assessed risk.
- The Company assesses the environmental integrity, additionality and chain of title of carbon units to guard against double counting, double issuance and fraudulent or non-existent credits.
- Unusual or suspicious activity is escalated to the Compliance Officer and reported to competent authorities where required by law.

6. Conflicts of Interest

Personnel must act in the best interests of the Company and avoid situations in which personal interests conflict, or appear to conflict, with those of the Company or its counterparties.

- Actual, potential or perceived conflicts of interest must be disclosed to the Compliance Officer promptly and before the relevant activity proceeds.
- Where Equiterra acts in an advisory or coordinating capacity as well as a principal, the Company manages the resulting conflicts through disclosure, information barriers and, where appropriate, recusal from the relevant decision.

- Personnel must not take for themselves opportunities discovered through their position, nor use Company information or assets for personal gain.

7. Anti-Trust and Fair Competition

Equiterra competes fairly and complies with applicable competition and anti-trust law.

- Personnel must not enter into agreements or understandings with competitors to fix prices, rig bids, allocate markets or customers, or restrict supply.
- Commercially sensitive information of competitors must not be exchanged improperly.
- Lawful, arm's-length commercial cooperation and non-circumvention arrangements with partners are permitted and must be properly documented.

8. Market Integrity and Anti-Market Abuse

Equiterra is committed to the integrity of carbon and environmental-product markets and prohibits market abuse in all forms.

- Personnel must not engage in insider dealing, unlawful disclosure of inside information, or market manipulation, including the dissemination of false or misleading information about prices, volumes or the quality of carbon units.
- Public claims regarding the environmental benefit of credits must be accurate, supported and not misleading, consistent with applicable standards and methodologies.
- Trading and origination records must be complete and accurate so that transactions can be reconstructed for audit and regulatory purposes.

9. Confidentiality, Data Protection and Assets

- Personnel must protect confidential information of the Company and its counterparties and use it only for legitimate business purposes.
- Personal data is processed lawfully and in accordance with applicable data-protection law.
- Company assets, including funds, systems and intellectual property, must be used responsibly and only for legitimate business purposes.

10. Reporting Concerns

Personnel who become aware of any actual or suspected breach of this Code, or of applicable law, must report it promptly to the Compliance Officer or, where appropriate, to the Board. Reports may be made confidentially. The Company will investigate reports made in good faith and will not tolerate retaliation against any person who raises a concern.

11. Monitoring, Training and Review

- Personnel receive training on this Code and its supporting policies at onboarding and periodically thereafter.
- The Compliance Officer monitors the operation of the controls in this Code and the Company's related policies.
- This Code is reviewed at least annually and updated to reflect changes in law, regulation and the Company's risk profile.
